Beauty has not been here for mere ten years. It'd been here since time immemorial, long before we began to worship it. It emerges, nurtures, fades. The motion power of the universe, of the planet, of the people. Of you and of me, of all life in all its forms.

Sparks in the eyes, inner flame, flames of passion, jealousy, eruptions on the Sun, invisible signals, floods of emotions. Not belonging to anyone, including us — the handful of devotees spreading the message in its name.

Just what is the Czech Republic and the few worldwide branches? These few hundred years of glassmaking tradition, those masters of the craft, this Leon Jakimič? What is design, or art? Who has the right to take themselves so seriously to place their ego above nature, and impose their judgement on beauty? On the way it's supposed to look, and on the way it's supposed to be viewed. No, no one, not even you.

Mere mastering the change of state — it's only sand, and then glass. Arts, procedures, nonsense about energy, wasting it or saving it. Market manipulations and light-speed races in disciplines that do not nor ever did exist.

Let it be, it's already set. Try to be free. Let live coincidences, moods, feelings, and emotions. Smiles and astonishments. Eyes narrowed or wide open. All the rays, flashes — data, if you will. Stories. Hearts aflame, even if uncomfortable. Yes, even laughter, tears, and magic.

It's not about us, we're only trying for the light beaming somewhere to make an imprint. In the right moment — for ever, perhaps — in glass and in such manner to make you grasp for air and blind with astonishment:
“What beauty!”

For this, we love glass, for it we do this. Try to understand, and who knows — maybe you'll join in.

You should get a haircut.

Why's that?

You look weird.

And why's that?

Because. Everyone will notice.

And that's a bad thing?

Yes.

Why?

Well, because you're so noticeable.

Is that so hard to understand?

You're just too conspicuous.

Everyone will point their finger at you, saying: "That's him, the weird one, see?"

But that's just what I want.

Be weird? You're crazy! This way, you'll never be left alone. Don't you know it's best not to stick out, not to provoke?

Not sticking out is boring.

Circle is life's basic form. That's why we're so fond of it. The sun in the sky is a circle. The wedding ring is a circle. The hug is a circle. The primary cell. The water, after a fish jumps out. The chrysanthemum.

The pupil. Chocolate praline. Lipstick stain after a kiss. Orange cut in half. Potty imprint on a baby's bottom. Breakfast pancake, slice of salami. They all are a circle. Circle is life's basic form...

Over 100 billion members of the Homo Sapiens species have already walked the Earth. A bit too many for one to leave a positive trace behind. Especially when life is so damn short. One is born, lives for a few decades, then dies – and before long, not an earthly recollection of his being's left. The only chance is to create something that lives beyond one's days. Something so beautiful and meaningful, so timeless that people shall feel an urge to use it over and over again. And one day, this urge shall make them ask: "How the fuck did he manage to make this?!"

When Charon is about to carry me across (and I sure hope it's not any time soon), don't forget to put an obolus beneath my tongue and add this set. While I've no idea what it's like in the underworld, I dare guess by its name it looks like some cellar, mighty big and well supplied. And for that, I should be well equipped when I get there. I don't care what's there to drink, all I ask for it is to be as classy as it gets.

And so — Otto, pronto!

Hey kids, now listen carefully.
There are fairy tales, like this one
about the tooth fairy, told truthfully.
Once a little girl for whom they'd left no sweet, now threatening with vengeance, li'l Medusa indeed.
A teardrop for each tooth, a treat cup designed to soothe. And so the tooth enamel of ours, the protector of our pearls, reigns the joy and happiness of all boys and girls.

Around the year 1911, Albert Einstein met in Prague with Franz Kafka and Max Brod, the writers. Max proposed a sightseeing trip to Český, Německý (now Havlíčkův), and Uherský Brod. Franz refused this on account of his phobia of castles and insect collections, and besides, as he put it, he had no time. “Time is relative, anyway,” concluded Albert. “Let’s taste some wines instead.”

Alas, in the Czech Republic, we have this “lovely” habit. When someone makes it big in the world, and I mean really big, in a way to become a name and an authority for others in their field, we do all we can to make him suffer for his fame. Because “we won’t take anything from just anyone! And who knows how it was with his fame anyway, right?” God Almighty! At least here’s a way to have him around in my own home.

I am what's inside me. If, now, you find me hollow and dull, you can all so easily fill me. And believe me that I, then, will be really noticeable and that everyone will wish to touch me. And, as I know how to be grateful, I will be happy to share with you what's inside me.
And we'll be happy together.
Life will once again be ever sweeter and merrier. You can trust me on that.

STOP.

Everything that was true
a while ago is no longer so.
What once was breathable air suddenly went liquid and is now translucent glass.

Loose sand / running lava / hard, amorphous glass. Who knows how it came to pass? Everything's a matter of perspective, broken reality
between the living and the dead, between true and false, between beauty and ugliness. What shall be?
Who knows — it doesn't have to be,
here and now, and yet may have a value.

Forget the world's biggest festivals. The greatest rock'n'roll of all is happening outside of them, regardless of the misdirected crowds of fans. The largest pit is in fact to be found hundreds of feet beneath each one of us.

Who of you happens to dare jumping in the downward lift cage and fall all the way to the core of things? To the place burning hot as hell where, after the dark gives way, the beauty can struck you blind. Here, this is what's happening. Did you not know that? The most beautiful things come to being under pressure.

I am the light! Live and frisky.
Most of all I love teasing the dark.
The dark is drowsy, not fond of me.
Now, I don't mind the dark. At least it's a place to point my rays to.
I tickle the dark so that it wriggles, having no place to hide. And this vase is my exercise area.
Here I learn to refract my rays and send them into the dark where no-one expects them.
The dark then gets all colourful,
and funny.

Coming out of all battles undefeated is not the biggest heroism — the greatest heroes would get knocked down, perhaps over and over, and yet rise again
and set out to battle, outnumbered,
to face the enemy, to fight
established conventions, to change
the world to fit their visions.
Such heroes shall be revered.
For they are the real and indisputable creators of what's valuable. The ones that know how to put things together.

Nothing. You've got all it takes.
How come?
You're beautiful.
No, I'm not.

First appearance of furniture dates back to the stone age...

What's tha'?
A mammoth's tusk.
How'd you get it?
Bagged it.

I see. And where d'you wanna put it?
On a display 'ere. Let 'em all see how good I am.

I see! Well you better put it where it ain't blockin'... Not on the bed, you!
You outta your mind? Just did me dustin' about an' yous aputtin' a chunk of old mammoth on it!

And just where AM I to put it, now?
How should I know? Put it in the table
if you want...

of that 'ere.*

Then you better think it up now, no?

Geli, dearest,
My sweet soul, come back at once,
I'm waiting for you. Prague is so beautiful... If only you never started this nonsense, never met Joachim.
I wish I lay next to you in all this beauty you deem so unnecessary.
Stay here with me, without the pearls, without Berlin. Do not make anything shorter. Step back down perfume. Kneel and sing to me for ever. I want you all to myself.
